

CTC Flying High in MBO with Inflexion

Posted on Thursday 28th June 2012 | Airline

CTC Aviation Group Limited has secured funding from Inflexion Private Equity to enable acceleration in its international growth plans through a management buyout.

The deal with Inflexion will see CTC expediting its growth into the worldwide market and - with the benefit of external funding - enable future investment in additional resources to satisfy the increasing requirement for the bespoke, premium quality training it provides.

The CTC executive team members all remain in place to continue building upon the impressive growth that the company has seen in recent years and to ensure that there is continuity in the company's ethos and reputation for delivering the highest level of tailored services to its clients. Chris Clarke, the company's founder, moves to the position of President of CTC Aviation Group Limited and Robert Clarke becomes Group CEO leading the operational and financial team of existing directors and senior management.

To further strengthen the CTC team going forward Yagnish Chotai, Senior Adviser to Inflexion and ex-Cinven Partner will join the board as non executive Chairman. Yagnish brings a wealth of experience to CTC, he is particularly skilled at helping strong teams maximise their potential and steering companies through international development
